PROGRESS WITH OXFORD

Make progress fun!

Progress with Oxford is a fun-packed approach to developing essential English and maths skills. Created to fit around busy family lives, picture clues show the youngest children how to complete activities, and hints and checklists help older children to work independently.

- In all books a unique character accompanies children as they work through the activities and provides support with helpful hints, explanations, and encouragement.
- Each book also includes stickers to reward effort, and a progress chart to capture how far children have travelled on their learning journey.
- Curriculum-focused activities precisely matched to child's age.

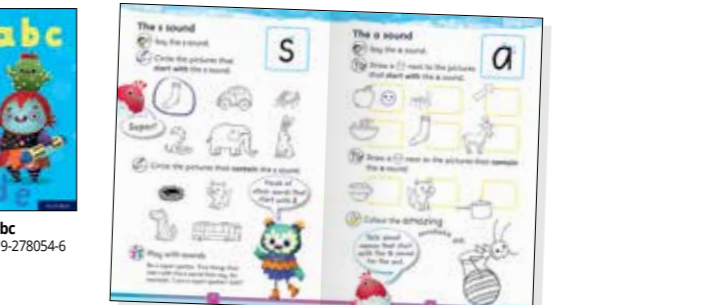

With a clear, intuitive design and easy-to-understand icons, even younger, pre-reading children can use the workbooks independently, building further confidence.

Whenever Bobby gets distracted, he starts to float – there are so many sights and sounds and smells which draw his attention.

Bobby wants to concentrate like his friends, so he ties himself to the ground so he can't drift too far, but that just makes him feel empty inside... Maybe there's a different way? What might happen if Bobby's family and friends learn to think more like him?

SUIT UP, STEP UP. IT'S TIME TO BECOME A HERO!

And You! DUCK OF DOOM

WRITTEN BY ALEX FALASE-KOYA
ILLUSTRATED BY PAULA BOWLES

Marv glanced over to the Duck of Doom, still causing chaos in the park. He had to get a closer look to confirm his theory about who was driving it. The robotic duck stomped around, leaving cracks in the pavement and quacking loudly. A person tried to sneak around it to try and get to their car in the car park, but the Duck of Doom quickly spotted them. It squashed the man's car with a huge webbed foot and the man ran away.

In these charming chapter books, Cat and Dumpling's far-fetched schemes and conflicting ideas wreak warm-hearted slapstick havoc, but always with a happy ending.

Rock formations provided natural steps from the tunnel. 'Let's go!' cried Croaky, about to bound down them. 'Wait!' cried Sheena, grabbing his shoulder. 'Look!' Hot steam was shooting out from vents in the rock. 'Try to avoid those,' said Winston helpfully. Croaky hopped down the steps as fast as he could and the other two followed. Something told him that Winston hadn't taken his own advice from moments before.

Every street, yard, and garden Rudy skated past was a soggy mess. The rain had left streams trickling along the gutters, and some gardens were flooded like ponds.

The wind had uprooted entire trees and left them lying across roads and roundabouts. A few had even karate-chopped through cars. It was as though the weather had had a full-on temper tantrum!
